

On the Path of Criminal Law's Intervention in Network Social Governance

Li Qianyu

Guizhou Radio & TV University, Guizhou, 550004, China

email: 4551719@qq.com

Keywords: Social Work, Social Governance, Innovation, Path

Abstract: Social work and social governance are interrelated, and they are indispensable. It is very valuable in the innovation process of social governance. The Third Plenary Session of the 18th CPC Central Committee not only achieved effective intervention in social work, but also formulated a more prominent strategic task of innovating social governance system. The goal of this work can be achieved through the training of various social talents. This paper analyzes the relevance and relevance between social work and social governance, and explores the effective methods of social work involved in social governance innovation to promote the smooth development of social work.

1. Introduction

Since the Third Plenary Session of the 18th CPC Central Committee, the strategic deployment of innovative social governance system has been made clear, and specific strategic tasks have been achieved by stimulating the vitality of social organizations and improving social governance methods. We will innovate to effectively prevent and resolve social conflicts and improve the public security system. According to the specific requirements of social work intervention in social governance innovation, the realization of path exploration will make this work more effective.

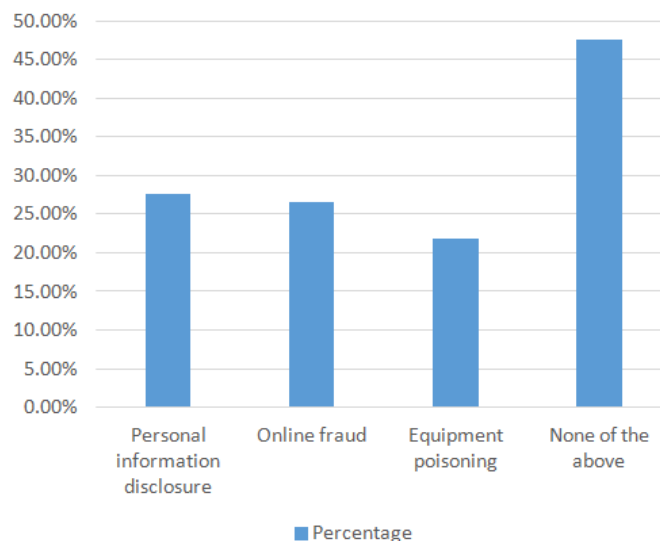

Figure 1 Categories of security incidents encountered by Internet users in 2017

2. Connotation and Relationship between Social Work and Social Governance

The reform of social management system was put forward at the 4th meeting of the 16th CPC Central Committee[1]. The Third Plenary Session of the 18th CPC Central Committee clearly defined the concept of "social governance" and the goal of social management system transformation. It analyzes social management at a deeper level. At the same time, the party's social construction theory and practice are more innovative and advanced. The essence of social governance is to expand public power and protect civil rights to maximize national interests. It emphasizes the positive role of social organizations, social groups or individual citizens outside the government of public places. Modern governance and governance subject are related. It is not only the process of social management, but also the greatest realization of public interest. It refers to the nature of coordination between the government and the public in the management of public life. This approach makes management more democratic. The value orientation of social work lies in people's orientation, equality, justice and helping others[2]. In order to achieve the unified employment of social resources with professional knowledge, technology, methods, personal or social groups to provide support, than the adjustment of social relations, social development process, in order to solve various problems, people have created a good social living environment, reduce social contradictions. Focus on social work, cultivate social work talents, and meet the practical needs of social management reform and social governance innovation. We should comprehensively consider the development of social welfare, promote innovation in social governance, and participate in innovation in social governance [3].

3. An Effective Way for Social Work to Intervene in Social Governance Innovation

3.1. Improve Social Governance

Social work contributes to the improvement of social governance. With regard to comprehensively deepening the reform adopted at the Third Plenary Session of the 18th CPC Central Committee, the decision of the CPC Central Committee emphasizes the importance of social coordination and public participation. Social work plays an important role in the social coordination of social participation. Limited by the traditional concept of official norms, civil society has not really formed. It is necessary for social workers to recognize the importance of citizen participation based on regional background, and establish a good communication and interaction between government rule, social self-regulation and resident self-government[4]. Take the chain mode of community "social volunteer" as an example, its characteristics are as follows: This is dominated by the government. Social work posts and social services are developed and purchased by the government. Realize the comprehensive integration of social welfare workers and volunteer resources. The basic charm of this model lies in social workers, volunteers provide help to social workers, combine the two into one, realize the best distribution of social talents, and jointly improve the quality of public services. The combination of foreign experience and localization. This kind of link mode can not only tap foreign experience, but also reflect the local regional characteristics, making social work services more standardized and professional. When social undertakings involve social governance, they must play an ethical role. The professional advantages of social work, source management, are reflected in symptoms and root causes. Its main value concept is to help others to help themselves[5]. The service process is very scientific and professional, which can not only meet people's needs, but also avoid various social contradictions. Helping others to help themselves is not only to provide material help to the disadvantaged groups, but also to help them build self-confidence and integrate into the spiritual support of society.

3.2. Stimulate the Vitality of Social Organizations

On several important issues adopted at the Third Plenary Session of the 18th CPC Central Committee, the decision of the CPC Central Committee clearly refers to the vitality of social organizations. Give full play to the value of social undertakings, social work also provides impetus for the development of social organizations, makes social organizations more dynamic, and realizes the separation of government and society and the interaction between government and society. Social work in developing regions of China has developed well, and social work experts generally work in non-governmental organizations or branches. Use appropriate methods to properly handle the relationship between government and social organizations. Please increase the implementation of individual governments and social undertakings to make social organizations full of vitality. In November 2015, more than 600000 social organizations were registered according to law. Among them, there are 326000 social organizations, 274000 non-profit non-governmental organizations and 4695 charitable organizations. From the current situation of social work in China, the number of social organizations related to social work is very small. In addition, the civil society also lacks proper understanding. In addition, NGOs are limited in scale, influence, innovation awareness, strictness, standardization and credibility. Relevant units shall, in accordance with the relevant provisions of the decision of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China on several major issues concerning comprehensively deepening reform, carry out special work to fully stimulate the vitality of social organizations[6]. At the same time, social workers should pay attention to their own participation, give full play to their professional skills, and give full play to the value and role of coordinated governance of social organizations.

3.3. Innovation and Effective Prevention and Resolution of Social Contradictions System

The 18th National Congress of the Communist Party of China clearly defined how to effectively prevent innovation and solve social conflicts through systems. To prevent and solve social contradictions is the main content of social work. That is, the professional advantage, complete game effect, and danger to the society can prevent people's specific groups from providing services, discover various problems in the society in time, and solve specific solutions through communication and interaction and various contradictions in the process. Because people's needs are not met, social danger will occur. Social work can be involved in social governance to achieve appeal expression, psychological intervention, conflict resolution, and rights protection mechanisms. To collect the information of clients, to choose the diagnosis, to make clear the treatment plan and cooperation with clients, to help social work and whether clients can be composed of four aspects. Social work has professional advantages. The implementation of specific work process can fundamentally solve a large number of problems and protect its rights and interests, which is scientific and reasonable. In May 2016, there were four consecutive robberies in urban communities[7]. The proportion of people over 60 in this area is about 20%. The cause of the incident was the presence of high-rise commercial housing near the community. Every day, for the convenience of maps, construction workers call in foreign traders to cross the community. Some residents believe that a large number of outsiders will cause theft. It is recommended to lock the community gate to the construction site to prevent construction workers from passing through. In order to solve this problem, it is necessary to report to the police, investigate and deal with stolen cases, and create a stable community environment. At the same time, representatives of property, community, residents and workers participated in the meeting to coordinate the contradictions among residents and held a consultation meeting for community residents. Set a certain traffic time for construction workers[8]. Clear the rules that construction workers should follow when crossing the community; social workers implement community services to strengthen the safety and management of the community, communicate with property and community, eliminate or improve the bad understanding of construction workers to residents. In addition, organize residents and workers to carry out friendly activities. In this way, the intervention of social work in social governance innovation can be realized.

3.4. Improve the Public Security System

The public security system of social undertakings will be improved. Social work is rooted in solving the needs of the masses and social contradictions, protecting people's rights and interests, and effectively avoiding the social risks of various illegal and criminal acts. Social undertakings can also involve ensuring the return of relevant personnel of the judicial and social correction system to society and serving criminals and criminals. Social correction is an important aspect for professional social workers to intervene in the comprehensive management of social order. That has a narrow meaning. The purpose and method of realization are different. Through the legislation and practice of crime prevention and the promotion of criminals' re socialization, it can be seen that social correction is not a penalty outside the prison. But aid and education for the people liberated from prison and the youth who have lost their legs. Social workers and volunteers should rely on the organization and leadership of social correction system. Public security system provides external guarantee for social work to intervene in social governance[9]. It is not only related to the participation of social work in social governance innovation, but also directly related to the effect of social governance innovation, which plays an active role in promoting social stability and development.

4. Conclusion

With the development of network society, the social relationship of "dual society" is bound to become complex. However, we can't make the criminal law standard and take punishment as the method of social governance to meet the needs of public opinion. This result is likely to lead to the punishment of "over criminalization", which is not a simple panacea for crimes imagined by public opinion under the influence of classical criminal scholars and legislators. The effect of restraining crime is limited. Technology must be used as much as possible to solve the problem of trigger technology. New laws brought by network technology will solve problems through legal means. It is also necessary for us to abide by laws and regulations in the legitimacy of criminal law, the principle of restraining and sticking to criminal law, and the civil law is debated in the online infringement. In order to solve the problem that using administrative methods is the requirement that online can be used to maintain society. Moreover, the law is not omnipotent. Many problems brought by network technology can be prevented and controlled by technical means. The government should innovate the concept of network social governance and establish a good network social governance mechanism.

References

- [1] DONG, Liang-feng, Yuan. (2017). From social management to social governance: Evolution, characteristics and innovation, no. 4, pp. 358-362.
- [2] Philippe Roy, Gilles Tremblay, Emilie Duplessis-Brochu. (2017). Problematizing Men's Suicide, Mental Health, and Well-Being 20 Years of Social Work Innovation in the Province of Quebec, Canada. Crisis the Journal of Crisis Intervention & Suicide Prevention, pp. 1-7.
- [3] Flynn M L. (2017). Science, Innovation, and Social Work: Purpose: Clash or Convergence?, vol. 27, pp. 104973151668619.
- [4] Dan Yang, Hao Jiao, Roger Buckland. (2017). The determinants of financial fraud in Chinese firms: Does corporate governance as an institutional innovation matter?. Technological Forecasting & Social Change, vol. 125.
- [5] Enz M K, Bryson D. (2017). Forging a New Path: Plurality, Social Change, and Innovation in Contemporary Senegalese Cinema, vol. 8, no. 2, pp. 5-6.
- [6] Hlasny, Vladimir, Cho, Minsu. (2017). Corporate Governance and Innovation under Demand Uncertainty: A Panel Study of Korean Firms. Social Science Electronic Publishing.
- [7] Mehmet A. Demircioglu. (2017). Reinventing the Wheel? Public Sector Innovation in the Age of Governance. Public Administration Review, vol. 77, no. 1.
- [8] Klöti T, Drilling M, Fabian C. (2017). A Social Work Perspective on Socio-technological Innovations in Urban Planning and Development.
- [9] Klöti T, Drilling M, Fabian C. (2017). A Social Work Perspective on Socio-technological Innovations in Urban Planning and Development.