

Comrade Xi Jinping's Economic Values from a Global Perspective

Jianhua Sui

Marxist College of Shandong Agricultural Engineering College, Jinan, China

Keywords: Policy; Economic Values; Construction.

Abstract: Currently, China's economic operation system has been covered under the global economic development system and framework. To formulate China's economic policies, we must change our domestic perspective to focus on foreign countries. This is not only conducive to the formation of a new world economic pattern, but also can fully improve the efficiency of the use of various resources, which is Comrade Xi Jinping's economic values based on a global perspective. Such economic values have become an important direction for China to explore and carry out new practices in the economic field. At the same time, the economic values are also constantly promoting the improvement of China's economic system and the construction of a new global economic development system. Xi Jinping's economic values have been combined with the global economic development, taking into account the common development of domestic and international economy. To a certain extent, they have made China have a greater impact on the global economy and enabled China to participate in the formulation of international economic rules. All these can not be separated from Comrade Xi's economic values. Guide. At the same time, Xi Jinping's economic values combined with the material interests of the social market economy, taking into account the interests of most people, further achieved and produced a considerable force to promote social development.

1. Introduction

A node in which the pace of global economic development has changed. In 2008, since the beginning of this year, the pace of economic globalization has been slower than in the past, especially in terms of foreign investment and international trade. The change in growth rate is particularly evident, and both growth rates have declined. In view of the slowdown in economic development driven by international trade, many people blame the impact of economic globalization, and at the same time blame the decline in living standards on the causes of globalization. Therefore, in many countries, "reverse globalization has emerged. Comrade Xi Jinping put forward his own economic values based on the global vision. This paper summarizes and discusses the economic values of Comrade Xi Jinping from a global perspective, and puts forward the important significance and value of Comrade Xi Jinping's economic values to China and the world from a global perspective.

2. The new economic values of Comrade Xi Jinping based on a global perspective

(1) New positioning in the stage of economic development

China's economic development must be incorporated into the global economic system and build a new economic value chain. Comrade Xi Jinping has a very high concern for this, and he puts forward a series of viewpoints through his own thinking, and argues against the relevant arguments of "anti-economic globalization", and on this basis, the future development direction of China's participation in it and How to do it and put forward corresponding guidance and theoretical basis.

Comrade Xi Jinping has a firm attitude toward the trend of economic globalization and has a high level of cognition. From the perspective of globalization, he discusses China's current economic development trends and the future direction of the economy. The role of economic globalization is considered to be an important factor in promoting China's economic development and effectively coordinating the interests of different stakeholders. At the same time, we must also recognize that there are new dynamic factors in the current economic globalization, mainly for the technological revolution, the industrial revolution, and the ever-changing structure of the industrial division of labor in the world. The existence of these new dynamic factors has contributed to the global economic value. The chain was rebuilt. From the perspective of global perspective, China's economic development is bound to be inseparable from international trade and economic globalization, which is also the stage of transformation and development [1] that China has undergone in the process of conforming to economic globalization.

(2) Proposal of a new concept of economic globalization

Comrade Xi Jinping proposed to continuously expand the market of world trade, build and develop the multilateral trading system, and at the same time, in the process of construction, most countries in the world can benefit, create a win-win value chain, and at the same time establish a community of interests and destiny. Potential economic risks. Comrade Xi Jinping gave a supportive attitude towards economic globalization with his firm belief, and focused on discovering the role of economic globalization in China's economic development. However, this does not mean that Comrade Xi Jinping knows nothing about the shortcomings of economic globalization, but hopes to avoid these shortcomings in order to obtain greater benefits. Of course, due to the differences in the development of different countries, the degree of economic development benefits that can be achieved in this process varies. Comrade Xi Jinping's economic values are based more on economic globalization. His main purpose is not only to effectively solve the problems in the development of China's economy and the world economy, but also to express expectations that a win-win attitude can be achieved. A good desire for cooperation with countries with similar economic development goals [2].

(3) New ideas on economic values

Be able to be the maker of the rules of global economic development. Comrade Xi Jinping's economic values contain the relevant principles of the material interests of the socialist market economy. On this basis, it is proposed that the development of the economy should be based on a global perspective, and that China should be the leader of economic development and the maker of rules. Effectively drive economic development in a global perspective. In addition, China is not only a follower of international trade rules, but also participates in the formulation of this rule, becomes the rule maker, and transforms itself from an economic follower and follower to a leader [3]. In addition, we must upgrade our economic strength, and we can guide economic globalization through strong economic strength, and expand the influence of the economy to the development of other fields such as international politics and culture [4].

3. On Comrade Xi Jinping's Economic Values from a Global Perspective

Based on the global perspective, Comrade Xi Jinping's economic values require China to integrate itself into the global economic system. Many important expositions on economic globalization and China's vivid practice of integrating into economic globalization have given the international community some important inspirations. The following is a discussion of Comrade Xi Jinping's economic values based on a global perspective:

First of all, in line with the trend of economic development, choose the economic development model that suits China's own. Countries with different economic development models have their own unique characteristics of development. These are the result of the combination of historical factors, national policy factors, and understanding of the economy. For the world's development trend, different countries should follow the trend of their own country, understand the trend and understand the trend of the trend through various channels, and find the path that can enter the global economic development system, participate in and become the system. a piece. In the face of economic development, China generally starts from the perspective of socialist economy, and at the same time, based on the economic development trends under different current situations, effectively recognizes new factors that can affect the economy, and carries out reform actions on this basis. However, this process is not something that can be done in an instant, and the establishment of an "effective market" is also an important point and content put forward by China's economic development for many years. It is necessary to effectively reform the economic field and promote the current economic development. Will deviate from the normal road. In addition, due to the influence of various complicated factors such as politics and culture, China's current reform of the property rights system and the changes in the price system need to be related to China's national conditions, characteristics and related industrial structures in different periods, and ultimately achieve The purpose of its own economic development [5].

Second, to integrate China's economic development into the global economic development system, reform the domestic economy, and carry out economic cooperation with other countries. Due to the existence of economic globalization, the whole world is included in the global economic development system. This requires the state to effectively integrate different economic entities, various groups of people, and class concepts, and to ensure maximum relative fairness. Enjoy the benefits of the global economic system [6]. However, there is a big difference between China and foreign economic development guiding ideology. The main reason is that Comrade Xi Jinping has incorporated the principle of materialistic interests of the socialist market economy into it. It is not only the interests of a small number of people but the interests of the people. They are all considered in the economic development system of our country. An important issue that needs to be addressed in the integration of China's economic development into the world economic system is how to make a good balance between the fairness and efficiency of development. Comrade Xi Jinping has paid more attention to this issue and conducted in-depth research. Based on the global perspective, it proposes an effective solution: through continuous innovation in macro aspects such as economic development patterns, patterns, attitudes, and practical programs, while applying innovative thinking to micro aspects, such as business operations and organization. And reforming the development system, transforming the development model, and increasing the degree of cooperation with other countries, linking the interests of other countries to the interests of our country, and ensuring that our economy and other countries are in a joint state [7] .

Finally, determine the economic development goals and reduce economic development differences based on the combination of interests. In terms of economic development goals, Comrade Xi Jinping has determined and implemented the economic development goals under the global vision to be able to build a national economy that no longer has barriers, to accommodate the differences in economic development of other countries, and to be able to agree on their own interests and interests of other countries. We will build a balanced economic system and reduce the huge differences brought about by economic development.

4. The Role and Significance of Comrade Xi Jinping's Economic Values from a Global Perspective

Comrade Xi Jinping believes that in today's era of globalization infiltrating into various areas of life and even in the field of thought, China's economy has undergone considerable changes under the development of such a situation, and at the same time has a strong vitality for economic development. In the past, it was a development model that used external investment to refer to the domestic market. Now it is a model that combines external investment citation with foreign investment. China's economy has been continuously developed in two ways of integration.

At present, China's economic development has a good development trend and development vitality as a whole, but there are still some stubborn problems that are difficult to solve. For example, the resource utilization efficiency of the two international and domestic markets is not thorough, and there is a phenomenon of waste of resources; For some trade frictions, it is difficult to solve them effectively, nor can they show strong support and resolution capabilities. From these problems, we can find that what is most needed for the current national economic development is to be able to unite with the major economic development countries, enhance China's guiding ability and organizational capabilities for the world economy, and build and create a world economy that belongs to China and places China at the center. Development order, etc. [8].

First of all, the Belt and Road Initiative has become an important opportunity for China's economic development. It focuses on the ability to use resources in both domestic and foreign markets for multiple and efficient use, further enhancing the degree of openness to the outside world, and gradually transforming from developing China's economic policies. To become a policy for the development of the world economy, and to achieve the integration and comprehensive development of domestic and international markets, effectively expand China's progress and economic living space, and at the same time effectively enhance its vitality and potential power, This is an effective measure to strengthen China's development momentum and strength.

Secondly, the Free Trade Zone is one of the main development directions. Through this measure, the degree and level of China's opening up to the outside world will be continuously improved; to participate in international negotiations, to protect its own interests and the right to speak will not be violated or lost; It is necessary to be able to stand on the international stage and effectively maximize the freedom of investment and trade through its own position; to be able to further facilitate economic services, and to continuously improve the openness of the inland marginal areas to ensure that China can In the economic globalization, it has become the core key and leader of leadership.

Thirdly, from the perspective of economic development from a global perspective, China's development cannot be isolated from the whole world, but needs to be able to connect with various countries. In order to protect China's own economic development and achieve common progress with other countries, it needs Ability to generate strong economic interests with other countries. For some countries that lack economic development and lack of start-up funds, they should actively help, and by granting loans and infrastructure construction subsidies to these countries, they will create a basis and prerequisites that can support China's foreign investment. Of course, the above refers not only to the construction of material conditions, but also to greater support for the soft environment of foreign economies, such as the cultivation of foreign talents, the construction of a good market economic order, etc., to ensure China's external economic development. Has a very long-term impact and profound value [9].

Finally, China's influence and participation in economic affairs will continue to increase. More and more countries are involved in economic globalization, but because of the differences in economic development, policies, ideas, and values of different countries, the existence of these differences has made the international economic situation more volatile, sometimes economic policies. The pace of development cannot keep up with the degree of change in the economic situation. Therefore, through a relatively reasonable and fair governance approach, China should construct a reasonable and relatively economic development model that allows most countries to obtain more benefits, and at the same time build a contingency plan to cope with the changing economic situation. And countermeasures to ensure that in the course of changes in the economic situation, we can cope with those uncertain economic risk factors and protect our interests from harm [10].

Acknowledgement

Research Project of Social Science Planning in Shandong Province, Study on Guan Zi's Economic Values, NOTE-ESTABLISHED ITEM: 17BZXJ01.

References

- [1] Yan Changhong, Liu Hongyu. The Study and Research of Xi Jinping's Scientific Discourse of Economic Globalization [J]. Journal of Economics, 2018(04):4-18.
- [2] Hu Angang, Yang Yusong. Xi Jinping's Economic Thought: A Major Innovation in Contemporary Marxist Political Economy [J]. People's Forum, 2016(01): 18-24.
- [3] Zhang Zhanbin. The Economic Thought of Xi Jinping and the Development of Socialist Political Economy with Chinese Characteristics in the Present Situation [J]. Journal of Political Economy, 2016, 7(04):32-35.
- [4] Yang Yingjie. Research on the Concept of "Innovation" in Xi Jinping's Economic Thought[J]. Scientific Socialism, 2016(04): 124-127.
- [5] Wang Lisheng. The Innovative Thinking of Xi Jinping's Economic Thought[J]. Contemporary

World and Socialism, 2016(05): 101-107.

[6] Zhong Xiangcai. The Historical Elements in Xi Jinping's Economic Thoughts [J]. Mao Zedong and Deng Xiaoping Theory Research, 2017(02): 5-11+108.

[7] Wu Shanlin. Three Levels of Xi Jinping's Economic Strategy Thoughts [J]. Qiushi, 2017(09):30-37.

[8] Research Group of National Studies Institute of Tsinghua University, Zhang Xin, Hu Angang, Zhou Shaojie. The Global Governance Action Framework of Xi Jinping's Economic Thought [J]. People's Forum • Foreign Frontiers, 2017(20): 56-65.

[9] Gu Hailiang. New Connotation, New Layout, New Layout of Xi Jinping's Economic Thoughts[J]. People's Forum, 2015(09): 12-15.

[10] Li Bing. Research on Xi Jinping's New Normal Thought of Economic Construction [D]. Tianjin University, 2016.