

Analysis on Regulation and Protection Path of Virtual Property Criminal Law

Ya Gao

Shandong University of Finance and Economics, Jinan Shandong, 250014, China

Keywords: Virtual property; Criminal law; Regulation; Protection

Abstract: With the development of China's legal cause, legal protection means are increasing. From the point of current knowledge, it is known that virtual property is a special type, and the virtual property criminal law regulation and the protection path must be constantly enriched. The implementation of various work should adhere to the scientific design of the program, improve the protection level of criminal law, and make a good setting and implementation of the types of virtual property, so as to provide more guarantees for national development and social progress. On the other hand, the implementation of the regulation and protection of the virtual property criminal law should insist on the control and solution of dynamic factors and make a thorough grasp. This paper discusses the issue and puts forward some reasonable suggestions.

1. Introduction

In the current social development process, virtual property is constantly being planned and managed. Some old methods and means, as well as wrong views, will cause serious obstacles to the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law, and it is difficult to improve economic and social benefits. In the process of implementing the regulation and protection of the criminal law of virtual property, it is necessary to effectively grasp the characteristics of virtual property and its influence in the market, including the information in media reports, so as to promote the overall work of the regulation and protection of the criminal law of virtual property to be completed in accordance with the correct line and standard.

2. The significance of regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law

At present, in the process of national construction, the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law have attracted the attention of the whole people, and in the process of deployment and arrangement of a lot of work, it must be improved. Combined with the previous work experience and the current work standard, it is considered that the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law has very rich significance. First, the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law can improve the legal system of our country. Although virtual property is characterized by virtuality, it is still an important part of property and has a great impact on people's life, work and study ^[1]. Therefore, the effective progress of the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law can promote the country's legal system, and constantly create higher value in the process of the implementation of legal work. The improvement of virtual property work legal level mean that in the process of judging related issues and cases, more basis can be obtained and better results will be got continuously. Accordingly, the reduction of the phenomenon of false and wrong cases provides more help and guidance for social harmony.

3. Current situation and existing problem of regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law

3.1 Imperfect legal provision

Nowadays, the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law have become the object of high attention in many places, especially in first-tier and second-tier cities. With the increasing number and types of virtual property, existing legal provisions cannot achieve good results, even there are many potential losses. First of all, in the process of regulating and protecting the virtual property criminal law, the new legal provisions have not been set up as expected, and some media discussions and social topics are incessant. People in different positions hold different views and opinions, which leads to the increasing internal contradictions in the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law. Moreover, in the process of concrete solution, the comprehensive effect cannot be improved ^[2].

Secondly, the long-term imperfection of legal provisions is likely to affect the overall progress of the regulation and protection of the criminal law of virtual property, and there is no good improvement in the basis given, which is difficult to get good results for the judgment and solution of some problems, and the sustained losses are relatively large.

3.2 Single protection mechanism

At present, the legal work has been carried out, and many pilot operations have been set up in many places. However, there are many particularities in the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law, which requires us to solve the problem of single protection mechanism in the specific work. First, in the process of setting up the protection mechanism, diversified modes of operation were not selected in terms of relevant evidence and deployment of various work. Moreover, there were great differences in the strength of proof between different virtual properties, resulting in great differences in the final results. In this case, the single phenomenon of protection mechanism is easy to cause more social topics to discuss, and in the planning and deployment process of virtual industry, there is no way to get good results ^[3]. Second, the setting and implementation of the protection mechanism are not well discussed and controlled by combining the current and future working characteristics and development trends. For example, the protection means of some virtual game companies fail to have a good grasp of players' psychology, so that the development speed of the game industry is too fast, but the decline speed is also very extreme.

4. The regulation and protection principle of virtual property criminal law

The legal work in our country must be constantly improved in many aspects. Some old models and methods cannot achieve the expected results and will cause new losses. Therefore, in the process of regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law, we must operate in accordance with relevant principles, so that in the process of solving the problem, we can put more efforts in the root cause. First, in the early stage of the regulation and protection of the criminal law of virtual property, it is necessary to design the scheme effectively. In addition, in the process of carrying out the pilot work, efforts are made to collect more data and information to promote the overall content of the regulation and protection of the virtual property criminal law to achieve a high degree of stability, which can obtain more guarantees for the future work. Second, the implementation of the regulation and protection of the virtual property criminal law must be carried out jointly through official channels and media reports, so as to promote the reliability of each work to be greatly improved.

5. Regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law and countermeasures

5.1 Improve the definition of virtual property

From the perspective of the market, virtual property itself has a strong particularity, and in different conditions, different environments, the benefits can be created there are great differences. Therefore, the work of the regulation and protection of the criminal law of virtual property must be constantly improved in the definition of virtual property. First, virtual property and physical property to make a good distinction between the operation, in particular, in the process of connection and transformation between the two, good implementation should be made, and reasonable improvement should be made in the definition and implementation of stocks, funds and other aspects. Secondly, the definition of virtual property, as well as the judgment and handling of specific cases, must be completed in combination with the content of the regulation and protection of the criminal law on virtual property. To ensure that everyone can improve their cognitive ability, maximize the definition and judgment of virtual property, have more working basis, and achieve better results in future industrial adjustment and work arrangement.

5.2 Improve the protection mechanism

For the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law, in order to better improve the performance of future work, it is necessary to constantly improve the protection mechanism, which is a very important component, and can have a more prominent impact. For example, the hacker attack on some popular games has a very serious impact and loss on players. By improving the protection mechanism, the government can collect more data and information in a timely manner. With the continuous increase of judgment basis, more references and guidance can be obtained for the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law, and better results can be achieved for the control and solution of criminals. Through the better improvement of the protection mechanism, the overall arrangement of work can be promoted to get more basis.

5.3 Strengthen punishment

From a long-term perspective, there are many factors influencing the regulation and protection of virtual property criminal law, and there are many challenges in the future. In order to promote the implementation of the work in the future can be more secure, we must adhere to the continuous strengthening of punishment, which is a very important component. First, in the regulation and protection of the criminal law of virtual property, some typical cases need to be better publicized in the process of punishment, so as to improve the awareness of the public and promote the regulation and protection of the criminal law of virtual property, which can get more support and recognition. Second, in the implementation of the punishment work, different indicators and conditions must be combined to complete, which can make a better setting of the future punishment standard, and in the process of solving the problem, can effectively avoid the recurrence of similar phenomena.

6. Conclusion

China is making continuous progress in the work of criminal property regulation and protection of virtual property, and many work arrangements and implementations can achieve better results. In the future, we should continue to improve the system of virtual property punishment and its protection, and add more provisions and information, so that the protection mechanism can get quick feedback and be processed to provide more protection for future development.

References

- [1] Fan Shuo. Criminal Regulation of Violation of Virtual Property Behavior [J]. People's Forum, 2014, (5): 123-125.
- [2] LI Changbing, PENG Zhigang. Rational Thinking on the Criminal Regulation System of Network Virtual Property [J]. Jiangxi Social Sciences, 2013, (4): 148-154.
- [3] Gao Guoqi. The Realistic Positioning and Criminal Regulation of Network "Virtual Property"[J]. Journal of Chongqing University (Social Science Edition), 2017, 23(3): 104-112.