In addition, the duty and mission of the defender would be the inevitable way to ensure the justice of law enforcement and improve the credibility of law enforcement. This paper focuses on the analysis of how to improve the credibility of law enforcement in the context of comprehensive governance. Starting from the connotation of the public trust of prison law enforcement, this paper analyzes the necessity of improving the credibility of law enforcement, and puts forward the strategies to improve the credibility of law enforcement from many aspects, so as to provide the reference for improving the credibility of prison law enforcement.

1. Introduction

In recent years, because of the cases of commutation, parole and temporary execution of the extralegal punishment of the pest of society, the public has been questioned about the justice of prison work, which has seriously damaged the credibility of prison law enforcement "Justice is the lifeline of the rule of law. "Prison, as the main national penalty enforcement organ, is the last defense line to protect justice and justice. How to make everyone feel the justice of judicial cases, safeguard the dignity of law and safeguard the credibility of law enforcement deserve our consideration.

2. The connotation of public trust in prison law enforcement

Public trust is power trusted by the public. Generally speaking, the credibility of prison law enforcement refers to the ability of the prison to carry out law enforcement work in accordance with the principles of fairness, justice, openness and democracy, so as to obtain the full trust, identification, obedience and respect of the public. Whether the law enforcement has credibility is mainly seen from the following two aspects. One is justice, the other is integrity. And justice is the cornerstone of the credibility of prison law enforcement. Then how can we realize it? It can be started from many dimensions, such as correcting the concept of law enforcement, and handling cases strictly according to law, also strengthening supervision and management, as well as carrying out self-revolution and so on. Among them, the prison people's police, as the main carrier, should firstly bear in mind who would be the subjects of law enforcement. And they ought to stick to justice, and adhere to the principle without crossing the line, together with putting an end to the case of favor, relationship and money. Only in this way can the concept of the rule of law be rooted in the hearts of the people, thus safeguarding social equity and justice.

3. The necessity of improving the credibility of prison law enforcement

Chairman Xi stressed that "fairness and justice" is the lifeline of law enforcement judicial work, and put forward higher requirements for prison law enforcement. First, it is necessary to improve the credibility of prison law enforcement to promote safe China and the rule of law China. Judicial justice is an important link in the overall rule of law, and the credibility of prison law enforcement is an important criterion to measure the justice of prison law enforcement. In the process of running the country according to law in an all-round way, to improve the credibility of prison law enforcement is to enhance the strength of the construction of the rule of law, closely related to the construction of our judicial system, and also affect the implementation of the policy of "rule of law" in China, which is related to the social stability of the country [1]. Secondly, it is necessary to improve the credibility of prison law enforcement to realize the justice of punishment. The process of prison law enforcement shows the justice of law. Only by fair and open law enforcement can the law enforcement power have credit to the public, thus improving people's recognition, understanding, obedience and respect for prison law enforcement. Moreover, it is necessary to improve the credibility of prison law enforcement, for the execution of penalties in prisons is an effective way to resolve social conflicts. And when the public trust in law enforcement of prison increases, the authority of the law also improves. Only in this way, people would believe in and respect the law, so as to form a way of thinking of solving problems by legal means, then avoid the alienation and escalation of various contradictions to influence social stability, together with enhancing the people's sense of security.

4. Strategies to improve the credibility of law enforcement in the context of comprehensive prison governance

4.1 Following the rule of law of Chairman Xi to enhance the credibility of prison law enforcement

Chairman Xi's thought of rule of law plays an important guiding role in promoting the overall strategy of administering the country according to law, and will also become the basic criterion to enhance the credibility of prison law enforcement. To improve public trust, the idea should be first. Under the guidance of the "people centered" law enforcement concept, we should learn to understand Xi Jinping's rule of law thought, thoroughly understand the basic spirit, the core meaning and work tasks, and promote the comprehensive administration of prison, and carry out the systematic construction of prison law enforcement.

4.2 Leading the construction of public trust of prison law enforcement with systematic thinking

Systematic thinking is the basic mode of thinking and important method of understanding the world and reforming the world. Under the situation that various diseases in prison are prominent, we must keep a clear mind, insist on using systematic thinking to find and solve problems, clarify the main and secondary contradictions, and under the guidance of the concept of integrity, system and coordination, find the prison's own position, start with top-level design and overall planning, and carefully create comprehensive solutions. We should build a multi-element governance platform to avoid the phenomenon of single, one-way and fragmented governance in prison governance, and further improve the construction of public trust of prison law enforcement.

4.3 "People - oriented" to build invincible army for prison law enforcement

In the context of comprehensive prison governance, "people - oriented" is still the first principle. Taking the opportunity of education and rectification of political and legal teams, we should bear in mind the precepts of "loyalty to the party, serving the people, enforcing law and strict discipline". According to the basic requirements of "five competences", we would act upon hearing orders, also promote thinking and reform through learning, and create iron army of prison law enforcement in new era that is trustworthy and reliable for the party and the people with both abilities and political integrity. Firstly, we should strengthen the construction of professional ethics of the police, then abide by professional conscience, as well as consciously implementing the concept of "fairness, integrity and serving the people", and establish a good image of law enforcement. In addition, we should implement responsibility of the police and strengthen the construction of police style. Secondly, we must speed up the construction of the "four modernizations" of the civilian force of police, also optimize the structure of the civilian police force, as well as improving the abilities of law enforcement of the police and the effectiveness of law enforcement, and increase the satisfaction of the public, which will also enhance the credibility of law enforcement.

4.4 Perfecting the law enforcement system and ensuring the standardization of law enforcement

To enforce law strictly and to be fair and judicial, we must rely on the system to guarantee it. The main reason for some prominent problems in the current work of prison lies in the fact that the system has not been strictly implemented and is in the same shape and falsehood. We need to perfect the law enforcement system, also set up a sounder system for the power operation, and lay a solid foundation for the standardization of law enforcement. The internal level of prison authority should be clarified, and the internal personnel ought to establish the record system, the investigation system, the responsibility system and so on for internal personnel for commutation, parole, temporary execution of cases outside prison, so as to make the police have laws to follow and follow in the process of law enforcement. We must control individual power by using the system so that the cases of commutation, parole, and temporary execution outside of prison handled by prisons can stand the test of time and history, and escort the improvement of the credibility of prison law enforcement.

4.5 Improving supervision mechanism and ensuring the justice of law enforcement

We should follow the idea of "promoting fairness through openness and maintaining integrity through transparency" and improve the supervision mechanism as well. In the process of supervision, we should pay attention to strengthening the systematic, targeted and effective supervision, also highlighting the direction of the same force and problem, then forming a multi-dimensional supervision situation of political supervision, external supervision, mutual supervision and internal supervision, so as to make the supervision more powerful. In every aspect of prison law enforcement, high pressure lines and separation walls should be set up. If the violators are light, administrative punishment will be given, and criminal responsibility will be investigated if they are serious. We can also actively use network information technology to accept democratic supervision from representatives of the people's Congress and democratic parties, so that the people can promote fair justice, participate in fair justice, and reasonably supervise all aspects of prison law enforcement, and form a good situation of effective supervision.

4.6 Improving the transparency of prison law enforcement so that the exercise of power is under the sun

The opening of prison affairs is the requirement of the development of the times and the best way to improve public trust. People's mistrust and incomprehension are due to their ignorance of prison. Openness in government affairs is the best antiseptic to power. We need to promote the construction of the public system and actively disclose the internal affairs of the prison, including publicizing law enforcement information, improving the news spokesperson system, and strengthening the degree of openness of the prison. And the prison should present the most authentic process of law enforcement and enhance the credibility of the prison in an open manner. In addition, we ought to make reasonable use of the power of the media, also publicize the positive image of prison law enforcement through the media, then have people understand prison law enforcement more comprehensively, as well as gradually winning the support and understanding of the people, and steadily improve the credibility of law enforcement.

5. Conclusion

In summary, prison execution penalty is the last defense line of social justice, and it is very important for building a country ruled by law. Strengthening the comprehensive prison governance and improving the credibility of prison can not only promote the construction of the country ruled by law in China, but also help the stability of social order and the trust of people in the society ruled by law. Therefore, we should focus on the overall situation, grasp the key points, effectively improve the credibility of prison law enforcement, establish a good image of judicial organs, create an organ that people are satisfied with, and protect the justice in the hearts of the people.
