

China's Strategy for Global Governance: Building a Community of Shared Future for Mankind

Hongshu Li

College of Marxism, Chongqing Normal University, Chongqing, China

lihongshu@sina.cn

Keywords: Community of shared future for mankind, Global governance, Sustainable development

Abstract: With the rapid development of the world, many international problems break out. Human beings need a better concept of development to face the world's predicament. The international governance system dominated by the west can no longer meet the trend of world development. The idea of a community with a shared future for mankind is rooted in the political ethics of sharing and co-construction, which is conducive to the opening, inclusiveness, peace, and development of the world. This idea inherited the experience of China's economic and social development and the essence of China's traditional culture, and it is the global governance strategy that China provides to the world.

1. Introduction

With the development of information technology, the global connection is more and more frequent, and every country and nation has never been as close as today. But with the close connection, many international problems are exposed. The problems of energy crisis, environment deterioration, racism and terrorism have become increasingly serious problems that are difficult to solve and affect the global development prospects. At present, the global governance system is facing unprecedented challenges. The unipolar world cannot provide effective governance and better public services for the world. The United Nations and the multipolar governance system have weakened gradually. Developing countries call for more voice and participation in global governance. Based on the above background, the world needs a new governance concept and system that can accommodate and promote the world's progress and development.

With the rapid development of reform and opening up for more than 40 years, China's economic aggregate and international influence is increasing quickly. China's governance experience and mode have brought positive influence to the world. In the process of development, China adheres to the principle of people first and benefits the most people with its development achievements. At the same time, China has an inclusive traditional culture, in which multi-ethnic groups live in harmony. Based on China's management experience and Chinese civilization, Xi Jinping put forward the idea of building a community of human destiny. This is a China concept of global governance, which has important practical significance for the governance and sustainable development of the world today.

2. The Necessity of Building a Community with a Shared Future for Mankind

The defects of the current world rules and order require new governance structure to adapt to the development of the era. The whole human beings in the world are related to their interests and destiny, and they cannot leave each other. Therefore, it is necessary to build a community of sharing, co-construction, common prosperity, and common participation. The concept of a community with a Shared future for mankind is timely and meets the needs of the world.

2.1 The Limits of the Western-Dominated World Governance System

After the Second World War, there was a long-term Cold War confrontation between the east and the west. With the collapse of the Soviet Union in the 1990s, Cold War ended finally. The development rules of the world are led by the Western Coalition dominated by the United States.

Then, with the prosperity of globalization, the world economy has formed a highly integrated industrial chain. The main form of developing countries is resource consuming economy in the chain. Developed countries are at the top of the industrial chain and earn high profits in international trade. In this way, the world economy is developing at a high speed, but many international governance problems have emerged. The world governance system dominated by the west can no longer fully adapt to the development trend of the world. Some developed countries still adhere to the Cold War mentality and power politics, which restrict the realization of the goal of global governance. Trade protectionism and anti-globalization trends have emerged in some countries in recent years, which have also impacted the global governance system and multilateral mechanisms.

Since the 21st century, developing countries represented by the BRICS have taken an increasingly heavy share in the world economic system. As a result, the current economic rules have been greatly impacted. Some unreasonable and unfair problems in the world governance system have come to light. This is reflected in the fact that the interests, demands and wishes of emerging markets and developing countries cannot be fully paid attention to or even completely ignored. The accelerated development of developing countries calls for a new global governance system that reflects and safeguards their rights and interests. Therefore, China's initiative to build a community with a Shared future for mankind reflects the development needs and historical aspirations of emerging markets and developing countries.

2.2 The Need of World Development Trend

Peace and development remains the theme of today's world. Although there are still conflicts and even wars in some areas, most countries and nations are still firm supporters of peace. People in poor countries are more eager for development, and hope new technologies to benefit them. Economic globalization has become the historical trend and inevitable trend of world economic development, which is irreversible. Cooperation and progress among countries are the needs of most countries. At present, human beings are in the wave of information technology revolution. Rapid development is the characteristic of this era. Equitable development opportunities are the needs of all countries.

The construction of a community with a shared future for mankind has profound historical and cultural heritage and solid support for common interests of mankind, which points out the right direction for the future development of the world. It has accurately grasped the development trend of the world and human society and will have a profound impact on the future and destiny of human society. Because the construction of a community with a shared future for mankind has quickly gained broad consensus in the international community, the United Nations wrote it into the United Nations resolution on February 10, 2017.

3. The Value of Building a Community of Shared Future for Mankind

In today's world, countries depend on each other and develop together. It is a very important strategic thought to build a community of shared future for mankind. This is a Chinese concept and plan that focuses on human development and the future of the world. It conforms to the law of world historical development and has important value of the times and practical significance.

3.1 New International Political and Ethical Standards of Co-Construction and Sharing

Community is the basic organization form of human life. In the era of economic globalization, what should be the relationship between people? The idea of building a community of shared future of mankind concerns the high complexity and uncertainty of global governance, and focuses on the highly dependent state and the relationship of shared destiny of all countries in the world. It is in the sense that the idea of building a community of shared future for mankind stands on the commanding height of international morality and points out that all countries in the world must follow the principle of co-construction and sharing. Human beings live in a same world of different countries and regions. No matter what race, color and region they belong to, no matter in developed, developing or underdeveloped countries, they are all symbiotic. Co-construction and sharing is an international political and ethical code that countries all over the world must abide by when solving global governance problems and promoting their own economic and social development. People from different countries in the world are required to cooperate in depth, which goes beyond the competitive thinking in the previous national order. Countries around the world are required to take global governance as a public issue in global development and actively participate in governance and take win-win cooperation as a new mechanism to build an international order, so as to promote effective cooperation among countries around the world.

3.2 Conducive to Further Opening and Inclusiveness of the World

The progress of civilization is inseparable from openness, inclusiveness and mutual learning. Different civilizations should coexist harmoniously to provide spiritual strength for human development. In the face of major global problems and challenges, despite many differences and contradictions among countries, we all live in the same global village and need to understand and accommodate each other, jointly solve the problems of human development and share the fruits of human civilization and progress. In reality, the diversity of human civilization is the basic feature of the world. Different countries have different levels of development, various social systems and different cultural development. Openness and inclusiveness lays the foundation for the common progress of mankind. To make different civilizations prosper and develop in the process of building a community with a shared future for mankind is to comply with the requirements of world development and respect the diversity of world civilizations.

Seeking common ground is to respect the diversity of world civilization and development models. It is the greatest common denominator that focuses on the overall development of mankind and seeks the interests of all countries. The fate of the world should be shared by all countries. Development results should be shared by all countries. Different countries should enhance mutual trust, strengthen communication and close cooperation. On the basis of the new type of international relations, we will explore a new type of relations that seek common ground while reserving differences, respect each other and learn from each other. We should build a network of international exchanges and cooperation in various forms and at various levels, bringing together the powerful forces to build a community with a shared future for mankind. As long as we understand each other and seek common ground while reserving differences, we will be able to eliminate the cultural barriers in real life, break the spiritual barriers that hinder human communication, and let all kinds of civilizations coexist harmoniously.

3.3 Promoting World Peace and Development

Building a community with a shared future embodies the concept of harmony. All countries in the world do not get along peacefully, and there is no way to talk about any development. The sufferings brought about by modern wars are unforgettable. The pursuit of peace and harmony is deeply rooted in the hearts of the people of China and the world. The society advances in the contradiction movement, and there will be struggle if there is contradiction. Building a community with a shared future for mankind faces all kinds of difficulties and obstacles, which requires long-term and arduous efforts. To build a world of lasting peace, it is essential to build a partnership of equal treatment, mutual consultation and mutual understanding between countries.

4. Chinese Wisdom of Building a Community of Shared Future for Mankind

In the course of more than 40 years of reform and opening up, China's sustained and rapid economic development is a miracle in the world history. Based on China's domestic reality and followed the world trend, China has embarked on an independent development path and formed its own unique development experience and methods. According to its successful experience, China proposes to build a community with a shared future for mankind, which demonstrates the wisdom of China.

4.1 Valuable Experience of China's Development

China's economic development has gone through an extraordinary great process, made remarkable achievements and accumulated valuable successful experience. We must adhere to the people as the center and constantly realize people's yearning for a better life. Unite the Chinese people to advance socialist construction and make people's lives significantly improved. Draw wisdom and strength from people's practice and creation. Productivity is the ultimate decisive force in the development of human society. Only with sustained and healthy economic development can we build a solid material foundation for the prosperity of the country and the well-being of the people. To adhere to the productivity standard is to always focus on economic construction and promote the sustainable and healthy development of the economy and society.

Adhere to the direction of socialist market economy reform, and continue to release system dividends for economic development. The goal of China's economic system reform is to establish a socialist market economic system. It has not only adhered to the basic socialist system in the profound and extensive reform, but also creatively developed the market economy under the socialist conditions. Continue to emancipate and develop the productive forces of the society, enhance the overall national strength, raise the living standards of the people and better realize the central task of economic construction. China stimulates the vitality and creativity of the non-public sector of the economy, and inject a strong impetus into economic development.

China unswervingly expands opening-up and strengthens in a globalized economic environment. Always take independence and self-reliance as the fundamental basis for own development, and at the same time open the door to construction. China's development cannot be separated from the world. The development of the world also needs China. Adhere to open development and promote the construction of a community with a shared future for mankind. Promote economic globalization to be more open, inclusive, inclusive, balanced and win-win. Work with all parties to build a new platform for international cooperation and add new impetus to the common development of the world.

Adhere to the correct relationship between reform, development and stability, and provide preconditions for economic development. Social stability is the most basic condition for reform and opening up and socialist modernization. Correctly grasp the relationship between reform, development and stability, seize the opportunity, deepen reform, expand opening up, promote development and maintain stability, and coordinate the strength of reform, the speed of development and the degree of social affordability according to the specific conditions of different periods.

4.2 Wisdom of Chinese Traditional Culture

China has a holistic view. As early as the Qin Dynasty, it achieved unification and has long-term experience in governing the big country. Chinese civilization is developed from farming civilization, which emphasizes peaceful cooperation and harmony with nature, rather than maximization of interests. The thought of people-oriented in Chinese culture is deeply rooted, and it is the pursuit of elite intellectuals to manage the world and help the people. The Chinese culture, which has a long history, can get rid of the binary opposition mode and shoulder the historical mission of building a world order of peaceful coexistence, mutual benefit, inclusiveness, mutual learning and harmonious development.

The initiative of building a community with a shared future for mankind shows great inclusiveness and emphasizes the unity of world diversity. China believes that world history is created by all civilizations and that the world is the common home of all mankind. People of all countries can reach consensus and cooperate in the face of common interests, and all countries should follow the development path in line with their own national conditions. The Chinese value system provides a strong support for the disintegration of any form of world monopoly interests and the deconstruction of the unjust and unreasonable world order. The Chinese model rooted in the Chinese value system will inevitably play an increasingly important leading role. The Chinese value system is in line with the fundamental interests of the people of all countries, and can be established around the world to seek mutual benefit, win-win results and common development.

5. Conclusion

At present, the western leading governance model and system cannot meet the trend of world development. The idea of a community with a shared future for mankind put forward by China is necessary for the world today. The idea of a community of shared future for mankind has universal value. Sharing and co-construction is the ethical requirement of contemporary political governance, which is conducive to the open, inclusive and peaceful development of the world. The concept of human destiny community has fully enriched China's wisdom, inherited the experience of China's economic development and the essence of traditional culture.

Acknowledgment

The work described in this paper was supported by the Key Project of the Theory of Socialism with Chinese Characteristics in Social Science Planning of Chongqing (Grant Nos. 2017ZDZT11), and the Project of Humanities and Social Sciences of Chongqing Education Commission (Grant Nos. 18SKSJ020).

References

- [1] Liu, Y. "China strategy of global governance system reform". Academics, vol. 34, no. 10, pp. 28-35, 2019.
- [2] Li, M. "A community with a shared future for mankind from the perspective of global governance change research on the international law origin of the idea and its legalization path". Social Science Research, vol. 41, no. 4, pp. 72-86, 2019.
- [3] Zang F. Y., Shi H. M. "Ideological resources and time connotation of the concept of community of shared future for mankind". Jiangsu Social Sciences, vol. 41, no. 3, pp. 1-9, 2020.