1. Introduction

Since the 18th National Congress of the Communist Party of China, the Party Central Committee has proposed "ruling the party strictly" and "ruling the country according to law", which has injected new vitality and connotation into the theoretical system of socialism with Chinese characteristics. The rule of law is the most basic way and means to curb the abuse of power and the fight against corruption. Therefore, in the process of strictly administering the party, it is necessary to provide basic guarantees for governing the country according to law [1]. To implement the rule of law in the entire field of education is to achieve school governance in accordance with the law and strengthen the legal education for college cadres. Promoting the legal management of colleges and universities is the most basic principle for strengthening the management of cadres [2]. At the same time, the implementation of legal education is also an important part of the education and training of party members and cadres. For major universities, in the process of studying political theory, we must pay attention to the legal education of cadres, ensure that they can be the leaders of law-abiding, maximize the ability to govern schools according to law, and ensure the governance system of colleges and universities [3].

This fully demonstrates that strengthening the legal education for cadres' leadership is of crucial practical significance for advancing the country's overall rule of law [5]. Under the circumstance of urging the country by law, the leading cadres and teachers at all levels of the university still have the phenomenon of attaching importance to teaching and research and business knowledge, and ignoring the usage of the school. In addition, its use of law to solve the problems of problems in the reform of college education, compared with the relevant requirements of the country to comprehensively govern the country according to law and the requirements of the new situation of education reform and development, even compared with the standards of modern university construction, there is still a relatively large gap: first Party committee administration pays less attention to education and training; secondly, the contradiction between cadre work and study is more prominent; third, cadre education form is relatively simple; fourth, cadre training management supervision and corresponding incentive and restraint mechanisms lack basic perfection.

2.2. Forced by the situation

In the process of social development and education reform, the market economy activities generated by colleges and universities have become more and more, so the phenomenon of corruption, bribery, academic corruption and power trading is very prominent, and even some colleges still have groups. Violation of laws and regulations. By reviewing the website of the Central Discipline Inspection Commission's supervision department, it can be found that nearly 30 cadre leaders have been disciplined and censored in 2017, so this fully demonstrates that the current situation of anti-corruption in colleges and universities is very serious. In recent years, economic and social development has begun to transform, and colleges and universities are no longer a pure land. Specifically, there is a serious corruption among their cadres. From the cases investigated in the past few years, it can be found that in the process of continuous reform of college education, the opportunities for colleges and universities to participate in market activities are increasing. In addition to academic corruption, in enrollment, infrastructure, research, and finance. Pipes, personnel and other aspects have also become a high-profile area of corruption, and the overall negative impact is very serious. Anti-corruption work and the building of party style and clean government have become the key points for the further development and reform of higher education. All the links in the management of leading cadres bear the important task of combating corruption and promoting honesty. to teach the leaders of the major cadres according to law, according to law, and according to law. Knowledge content such as management and decision making according to law.

Finally, at present, network information technology is extremely developed, so it is possible to open a network of cadre leadership and law through the network, and formulate a corresponding supervision and evaluation system to constrain it, and use its registration, video and experience to write and time to lead its cadres. The consciousness and enthusiasm of the study method is improved to ensure that the effect of the use of the method can be effectively improved.
